Sun Prairie Utilities Offers New Mobile App

SUN PRAIRIE, (Wis.) — Customers of Sun Prairie Utilities can now pay their bill and manage their utility account through a NEW branded mobile app. The new app can be easily found through Google Play or the Apple App Store by searching ‘Sun Prairie Utilities.’

“This upgraded tool can help everyone better understand, manage, and control their household electricity and water use,” highlighted Andy Hirvela, Sun Prairie Utilities' interim utility manager and supervisory engineer. “When customers have data that is easy to read right in front of them, it creates an opportunity to impact and modify their electric and water usage.”

The new customized app is a tool for SPU customers who have already set up a personal online MyAccount or want to transition to a new method for managing their energy and water use. Utility customers can visit myaccount.sunprairieutilities.com to read additional details, create an account, or log in via MyAccount if they already have a utility account set up. Customers already using a mobile app, such as MyMeter, will need to download the Sun Prairie Utilities app.

Users of the new branded mobile app can create energy and water alerts to avoid exceeding average daily usage and track current trends to compare against data from previous years. By using the app, customers can more effectively view how their usage changes over time and feel better informed to adjust for their budgetary needs.

“Our community-focused utility wants to ensure customers feel empowered to reach their electric and water usage goals, and this new app helps to achieve that,” explained Hirvela.
